

20. Love What I Do My Career JOB.

Do what you LOVE and you will never work a day in your LIFE.

When you are in the job you are meant to be in you will know it - because you will LOVE it.. it won't feel like work, you will love waking up and going to work. For those not working from home you will enjoy and look forward to seeing your work mates (that is the one things i truly miss working from home), many of whom have likely become more like family. When you think about it - at times you end up spending more time at work than you do at home so there is nothing wrong with wanting to enjoy it and be around people you like.

If you asked a teenage version of me if I ever thought I would be travelling the world, cutting and pasting for a living, I would have wondered what you were smoking.. Then tell her that you would quit a longterm dream job to take ladies on craft cruises - yeah right! and run your own business! but hello - this girl whose first part time job was working in a glorified fish and chip shop "Barnacle Bills", then fulltime in a shipping agency as a clerk, then to account receivable/ then onto becoming an accountant, a database programmer, a PA, a receptionist, secretary even a Creative Director. Throw in some direct selling, camp counselor 6 month stint in the US. Add some courses, photography and design to the mix and now run her own business. Well who would have guessed? But all I do know is that everything I have done has given me experience and has lead me to where I am today - a job that combines every single thing I love - from travel to photography, from teaching to designing, even the prgramming and accounting knowledge (man has that helped) and best of all, meeting so many new people and friends. Yes I love what I do. How Unmistakable Creations came to be? - you can read about that HERE.

Whether you have been in your job for one month or 10 years. Whether your live pay packet to pay packet or career driven. Right now you are where you are for a reason. But it is by no means where you have to stay if you're not happy. It doesnt matter how slow or long it takes to get to your dream job - I certainly took my time. Just as long as you don't stop trying to get there. Your first job may be the same one you are in now - how blessed are you knowing exactly what you wanted to do and still loving it. Others have may have had a career for years where you have worked your way up the corporate ladder and even run the show. Whilst others may be happy to work wherever just to earn enough money to pay the bills and do the things they want to do. At the end of the day we want to work to live not live to work.

On this page you can decide to focus on one job, e.g. your favourite, your first or just your current one. Even include them all if you are fortunate enough to have photos.

And a comforting thought - we don't have to have it all together.

You are where you are now for a reason and it could well be on the way to something greater.

There will NEVER be another one like YOU.
